Floating Flowers Instructions:

IMPORTANT: If you have roses, follow the ROSE DRYING instructions on the web site. These instructions are for flowers that aren't roses.

If your flowers are fresh, please enjoy them, but keep an eye on them. When they start to wilt take them out of water and follow one of the drying methods below. The goal is to get rid of the moisture to prevent browning.

Air dry:

Pluck the petals and the greens off the stems, scatter loosely giving plenty of air around the petals.

Pressing Flowers:

Choose paper that is absorbant: paper towels, non-treated facial tissue or printer paper. Place petals between 2 pieces of paper and press with heavy books on top. Change papers every few days until they are completely dry.

Silica Gel:

It's my preferred method. The color and shape of the petals is best preserved. Takes only days to dry. Follow easy instructions from the manufacturer.

How many flowers to dry:

I just need a few petals of each color. But if you dry more, you'll have options. Once your petals are completely dry, store them in a paper bag. NO PLASTIC!

Choosing petals for your setting:

Some flowers work better than others. Avoid high moisture flowers like tulips, daffodils, crocuses, day lilies, etc. Decide on a focal color and accent colors. In smaller settings up to 3 colors is a suggestion. The result will be a random mosaic pattern. Flowers that have unique patterns already made by nature can be fitted in the setting. See examples on the brochure in pendants "Rita", "Suzanne", "Cynthia" and the rectangle.

If you have any questions, please call us at 781-447-2633.

Payment:

Include payment and the order form with your petals. I accept checks written to Angel Rosebeads, cash or Venmo @D-M-Johnson. I do not accept credit cards. Returned checks are subject to a $15 fee.

Mailing instructions:

Use the US Postal Priority mail service. You will be given a tracking #. DO NOT use signature required service. This will only delay receiving your order. DO NOT use FedEx or UPS, they do not have access to the mailroom and they will leave your box outside unattended.

We will call you when we receive your order. When your order is finished, we will call you again. Provide an email address on the order form and you will be notified through USPS when the box is mailing with a tracking # as it moves through their system.
